Which repository is open?

Open

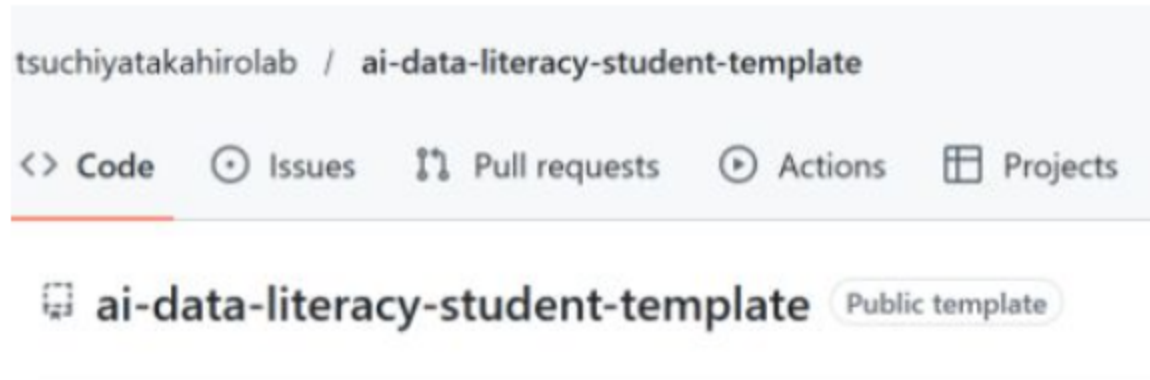

The owner and name at the top

Do this now

Check your own username.
Read the instructor material there.

Check before continuing

If you already own ai-learning, continue in that repository.

Public template example. Use your own repository.

Sign in to GitHub

Open

Sign in on GitHub.
New users choose Sign up.

Do this now

Keep an existing account.
New users verify their email.

Check before continuing

You know your username.
Your required email is verified.

Checking the operation

University course page
GitHub
Check each sign-in separately

Check your own screen before continuing.

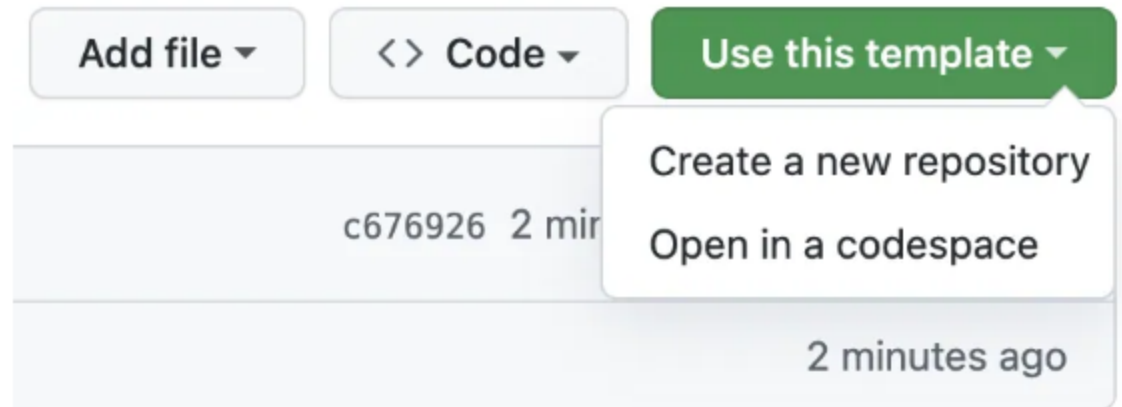

Create from the template

Open

The course student template

Do this now

Use this template
Create a new repository

GitHub Docs example. Values are examples.

Check before continuing

The creation form opens.
Skip this if already created.

Owner, name, and visibility

Open

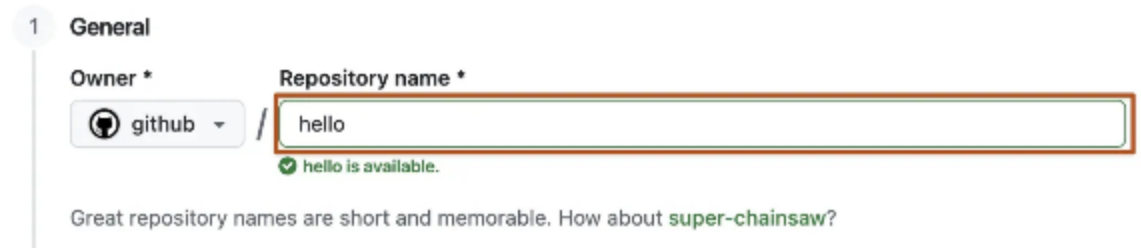

Owner and repository name

Do this now

Your Owner, ai-learning.
Choose Private and create.

Check before continuing

Your username / ai-learning and Private appear.

GitHub Docs example. Values are examples.

Check your own repository

Open

Code in your own ai-learning

Do this now

Find setup and week folders.
Bookmark your repository URL.

Check before continuing

The folders belong to you.
Use this URL for registration.

Checking the operation

Your username / ai-learning
Private setup, week01, ⋯, final

Check your own screen before continuing.

Open your README

Open

Your ai-learning.
The week your instructor chose.

Do this now

Open README.md.
Click the pencil icon.

GitHub Docs example. Values are examples.

Check before continuing

The editor opens.
The repository owner is you.

Add a short record

Open

The README editor

Do this now

Keep the existing work.
Add one true checking record.

Check before continuing

Your sentence is in the editor.
It has not been saved yet.

Checking the operation

Example checking record

I reopened the file and checked my saved sentence.

Check your own screen before continuing.

Check the Preview

Open

Preview in the editor

Do this now

Check the displayed text.
Return to Edit if needed.

GitHub Docs example. Values are examples.

Check before continuing

You can read your sentence.
Preview has not saved it.

Save with Commit changes

Open

Commit changes··· in the editor

Do this now

Enter a save message.
Commit directly to main. Confirm.

Check before continuing

Reopen README and find your saved sentence.

Checking the operation

1 Commit changes···
2 Check the message and main
3 Confirm Commit changes
4 Reopen README

Check your own screen before continuing.

Invite your instructor

Open

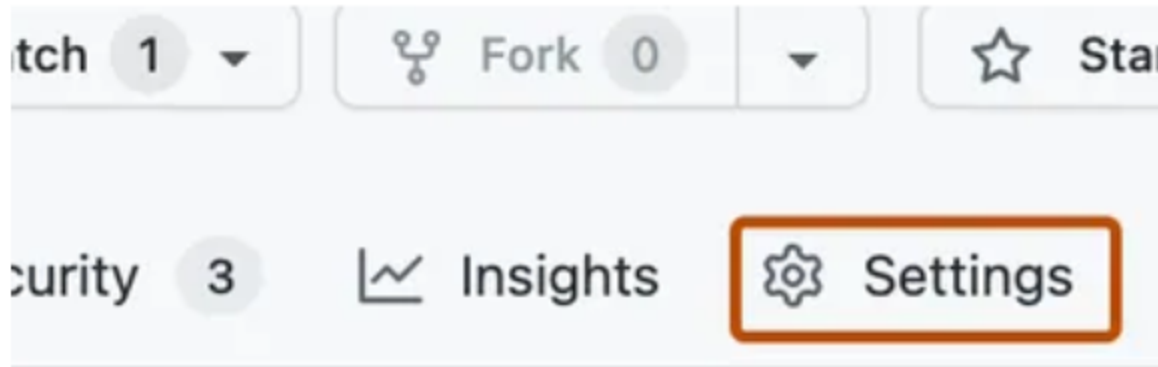

Settings in your ai-learning

Do this now

Collaborators, Add people.
Invite the specified username.

Check before continuing

The instructor is listed as pending or accepted.

GitHub Docs example. Values are examples.

Find the commit history

Open

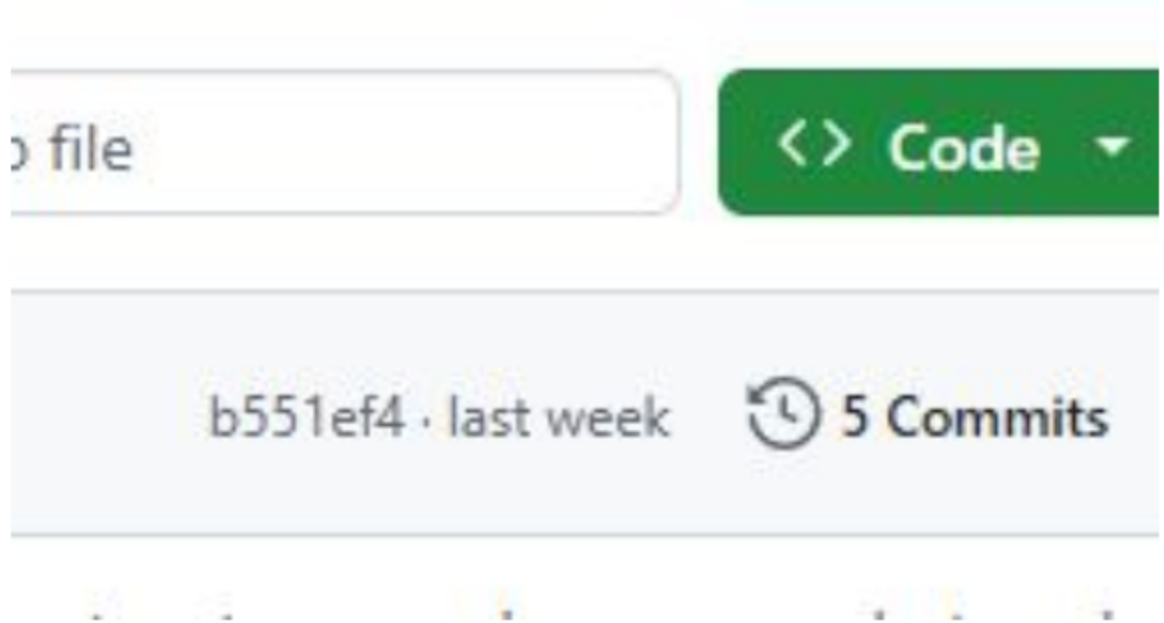

Code at your repository root

Do this now

Use the clock icon and the number beside Commits.

Check before continuing

The Commits list opens in your own repository.

Public template example. Use your own repository.

Open the final commit

Open

The Commits list

Do this now

Click the newest message
after all your files were saved.

Check before continuing

The URL contains /commit/and the commit identifier.

Public template example. Use your own repository.

Check the submitted version

Open

Browse files on the commit page

Do this now

Open that version of weekXX.
Check README and artifacts.

Check before continuing

All required files are there.
Use a newer commit if corrected.

Public template example. Use your own repository.

Submit through the course form

Open

The checked commit page.
Your weekly course form.

Do this now

Copy the full address bar URL.
Choose the week and submit.

Check before continuing

The form confirms receipt.
This is separate from saving.

Checking the operation

Initial registration
Repository URL

Weekly and final work
A URL containing /commit/

Check your own screen before continuing.

Check each completion state

Open

Your repository and receipt

Do this now

Check ownership, saved files, instructor invite, and form receipt.

Check before continuing

Explain setup, saving, invitation, and submission separately.

Checking the operation

Your Private repository
Saved files you can reopen
Instructor invitation sent Course form receipt

Check your own screen before continuing.